

Chartered Institute of Housing

Championing Mentoring for Organisational Success

PUSHfar

A quick introduction.

Ed Johnson
CEO & Co-Founder
PushFar

- Mentoring – Definitions and Benefits
- The Importance of Mentoring in Organisations
- Mentoring to Support Equality, Diversity and Inclusion
- Mentoring for People Development Strategies
- Mentoring at All Levels in an Organisation
- Reverse Mentoring – What, How and Why

What is a mentor?

A mentor is someone who shares their knowledge, skills and/or experience, to help another to develop and grow.

What is reverse mentoring?

Reverse mentoring is when one individual typically considered less experienced, more junior or younger, shares knowledge, experience and skills in a specific area where they are more knowledgeable.

For the mentee

- Advice and guidance to reach objectives
- Guidance on professional development
- Improved organisational understanding
- Opportunities to learn new skills
- Increasing your confidence
- Accountability to reach career goals

Here's the reality.

- Having an idea or goal: 10% likely to complete the goal
- Consciously deciding that you will do it: 25%
- Deciding when you will do it: 40%
- Planning how to do it: 50%
- Committing to someone that you will do it: 65%

Having a specific accountability appointment with someone you've committed to: 95% likely to complete the goal

For the mentor

- Improve interpersonal skills
- Learn from your mentees
- Improve organisational understanding
- Improve leadership skills
- Make a difference to someone's career

For the organisation

- Improved learning and insights
- Improved engagement rates
- Improved retention rates
- Improved inclusion and education
- Improved job and career satisfaction

Here's why mentoring works.

Engagement

Of those with a mentor an impressive 97% say they are valuable and provide engagement.

Inclusion

82% of professionals believe mentoring is extremely valuable to tackling diversity &
inclusion challenges.

Retention

Retention rates are consistently higher for both mentees and mentors, than those not involved in mentoring.

Progression

67% of businesses reported an increase in productivity due to mentoring.

84%

Employee Retention

84% of professionals said access to mentoring was a factor when considering staying with or leaving a company, with 42% saying it was a significant factor.

86%

Further Satisfaction

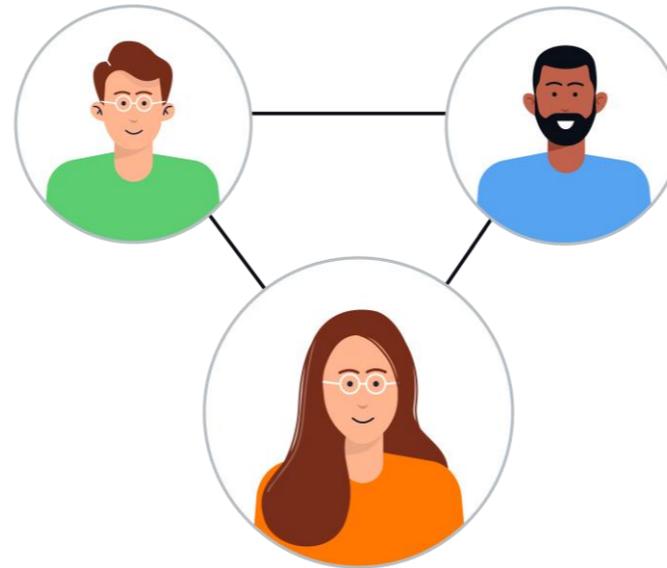

86% of PushFar's mentoring participants feel mentoring is helping them to reach their goals and develop in their careers.

82%

Diversity and Inclusion

82% of professionals believe mentoring is extremely valuable to tackling diversity & inclusion challenges.

Mentoring to support diversity, equality and inclusion.

How and why does it work?

Setting up mentoring to support diversity, equality and inclusion.

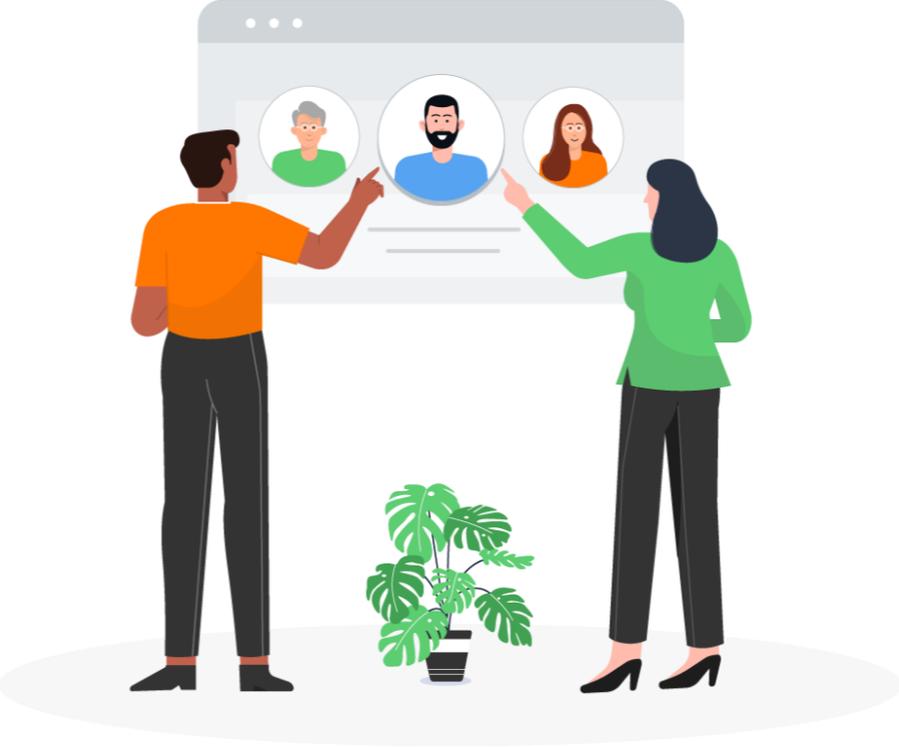

1. Identify key individuals, senior leaders and networks
2. Explore the needs for individuals
3. Consider reverse mentoring
4. Make your programme an 'opt-in' programme
5. Focus on quality over quantity

Mentoring with people development strategies.

New
Joiners

Succession
Planning

High
Potentials

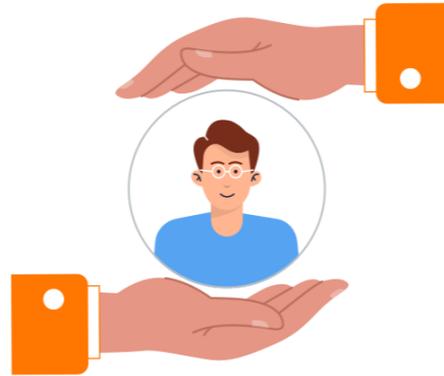

Career
Pathways

Cross-
Departmental

Mentor
Empowerment

What is reverse mentoring?

Reverse mentoring is when one individual typically considered less experienced, more junior or younger, shares knowledge, experience and skills in a specific area where they are more knowledgeable.

Benefits of reverse mentoring.

- Encouraging learning at all levels
- Empowerment for younger employees
- Awareness of different perspectives
- Education in challenges facing individuals
- Cross-departmental channels of communication
- Combatting imposter syndrome

Things to consider with reverse mentoring.

- Training for junior employees on mentoring
- Exploring training on building confidence
- Engaging with senior leadership
- Building it in to an overarching mentoring culture

How you can get involved.

- Join the CIH mentoring platform
- Review the mentoring guides and resources
- Proactively engage in mentoring
- Spread the word about the power of mentoring